

BIO:

Maggi Thorne

Maggi is a four time competitor for the Emmy nominated show American Ninja Warrior, Ninja Warrior Las Vegas Finalist, two time Team Ninja Warrior competitor, and two time NBC Spartan Ultimate Team Challenge Competitor. Her athletic resurgence began with elite obstacle racing including the World's Toughest Mudder placing 2nd running 75 miles and completing 330 obstacles. Before coming to Nebraska she was the California state champion in the 100H, and upon arriving to Nebraska competed in the NCAA championships indoors/outdoors, and was the Nebraska State Champion in the 100H, 400 and Boxing for the Cornhusker State Games.

She has continued motivational speaking around the country in addition to advocating for children in poverty as a Global Ambassador for Convoy of Hope feedONE initiative which $10 provides meals for a month. She is an Ambassador for ARYSE, a sports bracing company helping athletes and the everyday person live their best life well, and the UNAA bringing the sport of Ninja Warrior to every state and the National Congress of Games Summer of 2019. Previously she had a decade long career at the University of Nebraska Athletic Department spearheading over $340 Million in Athletic Capital Construction Projects.

She has received numerous distinctions including the honor of received the "Heart of Gold" award from the American Heart Association as a long time AHA volunteer and advocate. As a former Girl Scout, she recently launched an initiative with the Girl Scouts of Nebraska for a "BOW" patch to encourage female Entrepreneurship, Empowerment and Community Engagement. Additional honors include being named by the Governor of Nebraska as the "Points of Light" award winner for her dedication to community service. In 2014 she was also crowned Mrs. International spending her year traveling over 100,000 miles to 8 countries and over 30 states as a worldwide advocate for nonprofits. Currently she serves on the board for Resilience, Heartland Cancer Foundation and American Heart Association Heart Ball.

Thorne is a proud Mom to three active children who engage with her often in community outreach events, and travel across the US alongside her.

Social Handles: @Nvr_GvUp Instagram/Facebook , @TeamMaggiThorne Facebook